COMING ATTRACTIONS.

Belasco - "The Professor's Love Story."

For the second week of the Ben Greet Players at the Belasco Theater the management announce a presentation of J. M. Barrie's delightful comedy, in three acts, entitled "The Professor's Love admirably anapted for the correct interpretation of this whimsical comedy, with its English scenes and characters. Mr. Greet will assume the role of Prof. Goodwillie, the "young old man," who is, unknowingly, in love with his private secretary, and who, through gaining self-knowledge of this love, becomes rejuvenated in a surprising manner. "The Professor's Love Story" will be given for the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees. On Friday afternoon, at 3:15 o'clock, the Greet Players will give a special matinee performance of "Romeo and Juliet" for the benefit of the schools and students of the Shakespearean drama. These special Friday matinees will be continued during this engagement, being devoted to one performance of some classic or Shakespearean play. All plays produced by Mr. Greet for this summer season will be mounted with special scenery.

New National-"Robin Hood,"

As a climax to a most successful season, the Aborn Comic Opera Company will present next week at the New National Theater Reginald de Koven's "Robin Hood," which is declared to be the finest example of comic opera by an American composer. The score is full of gems that have become familiar, and the more familiar they are the more they are loved. The book is charmingly fanciful, and the characters are quaint and amusing. In the role of Friar Tuck will be seen George Frothingham, who created the part when the Bostonians first produced the opera. Others in the cast will be Ada Meade, Agnes Finlay, Hattie Arnold, Robert Lett, Huntington May, Sol Solomon, and John R. Phillips.

The Columbia-"The Great Divide." The Columbia—"The Great Divide."

The Columbia Players will present next week William Vaughn Moody's powerful drama, "The Great Divide." An elaborate production has been arranged in thorough keeping with the settings that were provided by Mr. Miller when he played the leading role here and Florence Rockwell was playing the part originally assigned to Margaret Anglin. It is the belief of those who are familiar with the abilities of the several members of the company that nothing which has been announced will afford greater opportunities to the individual members of the Columbia Players than "The Great Divide."

Chase's-Last Six Performances. Chase's closing week is proving to be all that the management wished, and the public is responding in unusual numbers and with extraordinary enthusiasm. No ther novelties swell the

The Academy-Vaudeville.

It is evident that the high standard of entertainment that the New Academy is offering at cheap admission prices has quickly won the approval of Washington amusement lovers, for big and enthusiastic growds are in attendance at every performance, and the prospects are flattering for a succession of crowded houses throughout the week. Another excellent bill is promised for the coming week. The first Sunday concert under the new management will be offered next Sunday afternoon and evening, when several exceptionally important features, to be hought to Washington direct from New York for the occasion, will appear. The management promises to make the initial concert one that will be remembered by all who attend.

Casino-Continuous Vandeville. Manager Mayer, of the Casino Theater as arranged a programme for next week which will contain at least three fea-tured acts, and one of which would ordi-narily be deemed sufficient for the fea-ture act of a vaudeville performance. The programme will include the Orloff Troupe, Russian acrobats, in a thrilling aerial casting act; Lelia Cautna, the Liliputian singing consedience who asting act; Lelia Cautna, the Liliputian dinging comedienne, who is one of the bets of the Morris big vaudeville circuit; return engagement of the Country Thoir, who created such a favorable impression during the opening week of the Casine; Raymond and Hess, entertainers in a little of everything. Richard Thomas Casino: Raymond and Hess, entertainers in a little of everything: Richard Thomas singer and monologue artist: Dow and Dow, character comedians; H. G. Fitzgerald, the American Fregoli, rapid costume change artist, and others, to be announced later.

Those who appreciate hearty laughs, sweet music, gorgeous effects, and charming women will find them a-plenty with Weber & Rush's "Dainty Duchess" company, which comes to the Gayety Theater next week. Messrs, Weber & Rush, managers of the company, have had a new and uproarfously funny extravaganza written in two acts to suit the requirements of the company, and they will be found to be full of laughing moments, bright lines, and sweet and catchy music. The vandeville part of the entertainment merit, and will include Miles, Ireland and company, in a one-act musical company, in a one-act musical company, and they will be found to be full of laughing moments, bright lines, and sweet and catchy music.
